Synopsis:

In Transmasculine Hole of the Universe, the lines between fantasy and reality are blurred — this appears as an interview conducted by the director between two trans men. The video, a trans man's fantasy, opens with frank discussions, such as testosterone injection sites marked by tattoos, then leads to sex. This sight of pleasure takes on a life of its own, as the director and performer's lust makes a tongue-in-cheek metaphor for the universe, blackholes, the hole in the middle of a tattoo through which testosterone flows.
