Interior Scroll, 2024

I read a collection of fetishizing, objectifying, and/or racist remarks I have received from white cis men over the years. I proceed to roll up the scroll and insert it in the anonymized submissive's ass.

But I figured I'd hold it.

Not mine

Spelled desire

The words in his mouth

~~It's not mine~~ I'm prepared to have

The thing is, it's intensely sensitive

Believe what came from his mouth

I met a white man once

Your position

In a place of worship

If you will

Imagine

They will worship you to be used as muscle

Be prepared

In carefully chosen words I'm prepared

for I prefer the word
"negotiation"

That's meant to be a compliment, he said

Best of both worlds

The closer I imagine

I imagine me on my knees

The white man

Imagine me

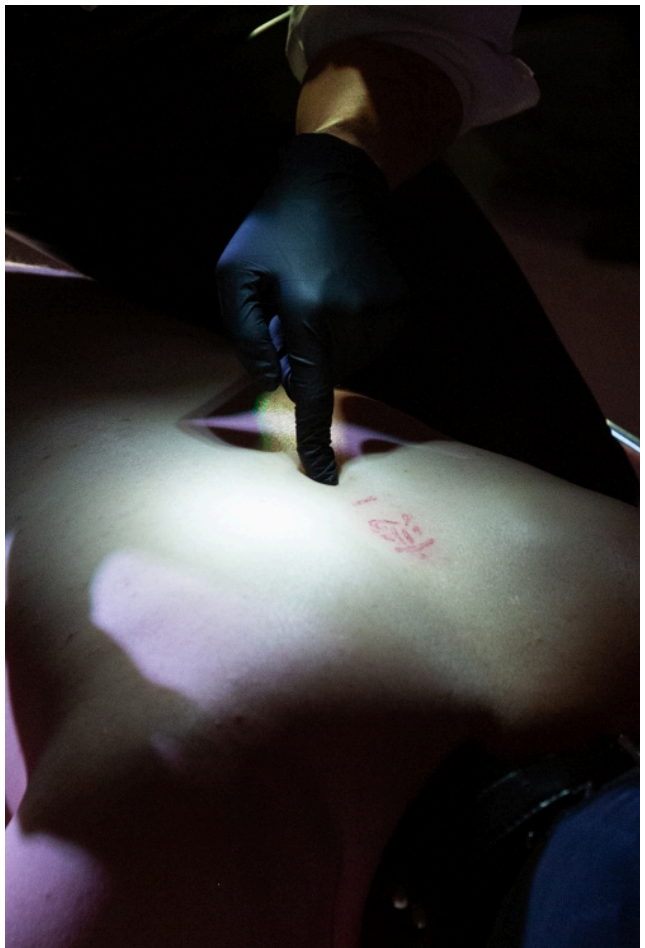

Call it belief

or find in your private browser.

Was it something you saw in the internet on television?

Sinophilia ("Asian Fetishizer"), 2024

An anonymized white cis man is marked with the words 恋亚癖 ("Asian fetishizer"), etched into his skin using a tattoo machine, without ink.

Ornamentalism, 2024

Using a tattoo machine, without ink, the definition of porcelain – historically used to dehumanize both Asian femininity and masculinity – is etched into my skin.

Gilding, 2025

I am gilded with gold by an audience, then mummified in cellophane to adhere the gold to my skin, then physically carried into another room in which I am released. I 'cruise' the space and the audience, leaving imprints of gold where I touch.
